

Executive Biography

Norihiro (Nori) Kondo
Consultant
Innovation Scout & JPAC

Strategic Partnership & Business Development

Nori has a 20+ year history of helping American and Asian companies connect for mutual success. Nori understands how important strategic planning is to determine what types of partnerships are required and plans to deliver success. Sourcing and securing the right partners, hands-on coordination, translation, and project management for effective and efficient implementation.

Additionally, he experienced to lead a fortune 500 global company's new business development center in Silicon Valley, that manages entrepreneur – corporate collaborations working closely with start-up incubators, VC's, and related industry intuitions and associations.

Nori is actively working with several technology and industry associations as a board member or advisor, such as Asian American Multi-Technology Association, Silicon Valley Robotics, LA Blockchain Lab, City Innovate, as well as mentoring several start-ups from both the US and Japan.

Living in San Jose and Tokyo, Japan, and being active participation of Asian community programs and events, Nori is close and connected with the latest innovation and business trends from both Silicon Valley and Asian countries.

Our strength is the power of our collective.

Client Engagements:

Nori spends half his time in Silicon Valley and the other half in Asia, based in Tokyo. Nori is constantly on the look out for the latest in innovation and technology for the world of retail, food service and consumer convenience. He helps 4xi feed our Innovation Pipeline and Explorers Directory. If you are seeking to find the latest innovation, or an innovator seeking to explore global markets, then please get in touch.

Innovation

Technology

Growth

Global

Coaching

Scout

